It all started with a red brahman bull named Whiskey.

According to the owner of Whiskey Ridge Guest Ranch, Carl Schultz, Whiskey used to sit on a ridge on the property therefore they called it Whiskey Ridge. Although Whiskey is no longer at the ranch, the name remains. Schultz, his family and farm employees have been named the 2017 Hot Spring County Farm Family. “We’re honored to be this year’s Farm Family,” Schultz said.

The ranch is located on Highway 84 in the Social Hill community.

The farm raises a variety of items: trees, cows, horses, pigs, chickens, mules, vegetables and more. There’s even a few dogs and a cat that keep everything in its place.

Schultz explained how in past years, when his sons were in school showing animals, there would be numerous students at the farm. Many of those students have gone on to be successful and some have stayed working at the farm, such as Virginia Haydel. Schultz said, “It’s about teaching the value of working hard, learning to make a wage.”

Haydel has been employed at the farm for eight years and does a variety of work, from maintaining fences to feeding horses. “She earns a horse’s respect and is an excellent teacher,” said Schultz. Haydel also cuts, takes and bales hay on the farm. “She has learned that hard work pays off,” said Schultz. Haydel recently returned from internship at a farm in Texas.

A video of Haydel working with a horse can be found at www.malvern-online.com.

Mark and Jennifer Bailey are the primary caretakers of the Whiskey Ridge Guest Ranch arena. Visit Whiskey Ridge Guest Ranch on Facebook for upcoming camps and event dates.

Schultz and Whiskey Ridge Guest Ranch are supporters of the local 4-H. Schultz built the current livestock show ring at the Hot Spring County Fairgrounds. He and his sister formed the Hot Spring County Livestock Exhibition, a 501(c)3 organization. For many years 4-Hers and FFA members have enjoyed the new show arena at the Hot Spring County Fairgrounds. Schultz is a sponsor of the fair awards banquet and the ranch also supplies the meal.

Schultz is vice president of United Properties Management, Inc. of Little Rock. United Properties Management manages housing for persons who are mobility impaired and/or intellectually impaired and multi-family low income housing.
